Ms Pearmain,

Thank you for forwarding the information. I'd appreciate it if you would tell the relevant attorneys that I intend to withdraw the motion for sanctions today or tomorrow.

Thanks so much.

Lin,

If it's not too much trouble, please assure the same attorneys that I'll withdraw the motion for sanctions by tomorrow (Saturday). I originally committed to get it done by today, but my work schedule is looking tighter than I expected. Thanks a ton.

Steve

Lin,

I'm sorry, I was mistaken about circumstances last Thursday and Friday when I emailed you about withdrawing my motion. But, as you may be aware, on Tuesday, Jan 16th, the attorneys you represent, and their partners representing the remaining defendants, filed two separate motions to dismiss my action.

Somehow when I glanced over the documents last Tuesday I thought one of the motions was just a statement in support of the other motion. I didn't realize my mistake until I had time to thoroughly review the documents on Saturday (yesterday). In light of circumstances, as they are, faced with redundant motions to dismiss, I cannot agree to withdraw my motion for sanctions at this time. After I address the motions to dismiss I'll consider what further action to take regarding sanctions.

I'd appreciate it if you would forward this information to the attorneys.

Thank You.

Steve Wilson Briggs
